

Switched On TV

WITH CAMERON ADAMS

DON'T MISS

BRAN NUE DAE
SUNDAY, ABC1, 8.30pm
A REPEAT, but certainly worth seeing again. Or a treat if you've never seen it. This is the movie adaptation of the popular musical. Jessica Mauboy, Missy Higgins and Dan Sultan are among the musicians making their big-screen debut in this coming-of-age, boy-meets-girl tale set in Broome in Western Australia.

HART OF DIXIE

FOX8, 6.30pm
THE first thing you need to do is accept that Rachel Bilson is a surgeon. And a successful one at that. Forget about her being the sassy Summer from The O.C. Or doing those rent-paying ice-cream ads last year. She is the star of this new US drama as Zoe Hart (see what they did with the title?) who winds up moving from New York to Alabama to work in a hospital. Yes, a familiar theme — high-falutin' city slicker is a fish out of water in a small town. But there's a certain charm that recalls Men in Trees and The Gilmore Girls.

COOL MAN

RAGE

ABC1, 11.30pm
IF IT'S January, it means Rage has gone retro. Controversially, there's no Countdown episodes tonight. You'd think they'd be more timely than ever. Instead, they've rewinded post-Countdown to the late 1960s. There's clips from music shows Get to Know, Hit Scene and Be Our Guest, with music from the likes of Ravi Shankar (left), Jeff St John and Python Lee Jackson, plus clips from The Velvet Underground and The Easybeats to follow afterwards.

SINGLE-HANDED

ABC1, 9.10pm
ONE of those imported cop dramas that just reeks of Saturday night on the ABC: a slow-moving Irish mini-series with thick accents and dead bodies. We meet cop Jack Driscoll (Owen McDonnell, left), fresh from Dublin and the kind of guy who gives blokes lifts from the pub when they've been drinking. All this and crime-solving, too. A girl has died. And there's some murky business behind the men in the town who were attracted to her.

SATURDAY